- Advanced Medical Resources is a nationally recognized leader in the medical services and products industry. The company's goal is simple... to link physicians and hospitals with the highest quality cardiovascular products available on the market and to provide expert dependable service to each client it serves.

AMR's success in accessing and providing the most up to date services and effective products available on the market is unparalleled. The company recognizes that technology in the medical sector changes daily. They also realize that it is impossible to canvas every area of the medical products business on a constant basis. AMR has chosen to specialize in select areas, staying abreast of changing factors and continued updates in those segments. With those criteria in place they conduct extensive research into the most cutting edge products available and immediately incorporate those into patient care.

Clinical excellence is a must in all situations be it scheduled surgeries or emergencies. AMR's job is to assist the physician and the hospital in any way possible when the need demands. The bottom line is AMR links first-rate services and support products to physicians to produce exceptional patient results every time.

SOMATOSENSORY EVOKED POTENTIALS

Following an electrical signal as it travels from the limbs to the brain via the spinal cord, AMR stimulates a major nerve in either the leg for back surgery or the arm for neck surgery and follows the signal with a computer specially programmed to record these electrical signals.

AUTOLOGOUS PLATELET GRAFTING GEL

This gel product is a safe, rapid and economical tissue sealant and adhesive utilizing the patient's own platelets collected prior to surgery which eliminates risks associated with previous sealants. It offers superior results in the reduction of swelling, bleeding and bruising while also reducing the risk of infection and often reducing the pain associated with surgery.

Specializing in intraoperative and post-operative blood salvage and plasmapheresis, AMR's autotransfusion services include trained technicians, capital equipment and disposable supplies for the Cardiovascular, orthopedic, vascular, general, neurosurgery, OB/GYN and urologic areas.
